

THE LIBRARY SPEAKS
MARCH 8, 1939

ANN: The Library Speaks.

THEME: RUSTLE OF SPRING.....298...up and fade for....

ANN: Today, the Eau Claire Public Library presents the seventh in a series of LIVING AUTOGRAPHS. Until the time that we have speaking newspapers, or even television, we'll have to rely upon the spoken word to transmit to us the thoughts of men and women. It's with that thought in mind, that the library has designed this program to present in person some of the authors of the Chippewa Valley. Some of these people have books already published and placed in your local library, while others are noted for ~~other~~ achievements along the same line. Thus, we may call these interviews, living autographs, for the spoken words of these people will convey to you their thoughts, their impressions, and their personalities. We are pleased to present the SEVENTH living autograph today, and turn the program over to Marion Langdell, of the Eau Claire Library Staff, who will make the introduction.

TALK:

ANN: This is your announcer, Robert Crawford, closing the autograph book for the last time in the present series. Several other authors were eligible to appear as guests but have been unable to do so for various reasons. It is the wish of the library, that you have enjoyed this series which has been designed for your information and pleasure. Once again, may we say thank you to the guests who have appeared on this series and to all those who by letter, telephone calls, and personal messages have indicated that they have enjoyed meeting these Chippewa Valley authors.

THEME: RUSTLE OF SPRING.....298....up and fade for....

ANN: Heard on the program this morning was Dr. S.C. Eastvold, Eau Claire pastor and author of Paul and Luther, who appeared as the last guest on this LIVING AUTOGRAPH SERIES. Next week, same time, same station, a very unusual and interesting program has been arranged. You have our cordial invitation to be with us then. This was an edu.feature..
